Future Of U.N. Seen In Debate

Britain, India Try To Ease Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly, gripped by crisis, moves Monday into a full week of stormy debate, with the future of the world organization itself at stake.

But in advance of the speech-making—which includes an oration of at least four hours by Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro—the spotlights turned on possible attempts by Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and India's Prime Minister Nehru to ease critical East-West tensions.

Lumumba Sees His Return To Congo Power

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI)—Ousted Premier Patrice Lumumba left his home for the first time in a week Sunday under United Nations protection and predicted he would return to power.

Strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu, now in control of the Congo, immediately rejected the prediction and ruled out any new Lumumba government.

Lumumba flung his challenge at Mobutu during a walk accompanied by Ghanaian troops of the U.N. force.

"The reinstatement of the old Lumumba government is out of the question as it would only re-establish chaos and disorder in the Congo," Mobutu said.

"I have enough forces now to take things into my own hands," he said.

Mobutu, who told reporters at his home that he had protested to the United Nations about its troops accompanying Lumumba on the walk, said the government which will take over from his "college of high commissioners" must have a "much broader national base" than Lumumba's ousted administration.

He said, however, that he favors a "personal reconciliation" between Lumumba and President Joseph Kasavubu. He himself visited both leaders Saturday to get their sides of the dispute.

Prince Charles Is Businessman

LONDON (AP)—Eleven-year-old Prince Charles is becoming a big businessman.

He's even started attending quarterly financial meetings—and taking a lively interest in them. These are with his advisers, the men who manipulate his steadily rising fortune.

A source close to the royal family says the youthful heir to the British throne already has a shrewd business head.

At present he's taking keen interest in a deal down near Plymouth whereby he became landlord of a new piece of property.

This is a Georgian house at Saltmarsh. Charles asked to see it before it was leased in his name for 410 pounds—$1,248 a year. He liked what he saw.

Last week Charles learned his personal fortune had unexpectedly increased by $33,600. This money came from the estate of a Cornishman who died with no known relative or heir. Normally in Britain, money with no one to claim it goes to the treasury. But not so in the duchy of Cornwall. There it goes to Bonny Prince Charles as the duke of Cornwall.

Charles, who will be worth about $700,000 when he's 21, is presently a student at nearby Cheam School. His weekly pocket money is reported to be two shillings, six pence—35 cents.

Dixie Leaders Rally Behind Sen. Kennedy

Governors Prepare For 26th Annual Conference Today

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—With some notable exceptions, Dixie governors rallied behind Sen. John F. Kennedy Sunday in the belief the south might provide him a winning edge in the presidential contest.

Most of the Democrats arriving in this rain-pelted resort for the 26th annual Southern Governors Conference, which opens business sessions Monday, lined themselves up for active campaigning for the Democratic nominee.

It seemed to be their general opinion that, after a slow start, Kennedy is gaining strength in most of the 16 conference states. These include Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

Faces Uphill Battle
But some governors said frankly Kennedy faces an uphill battle in their states. And most of them conceded that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is likely to make some inroads into Dixie that could threaten Kennedy with defeat if the contest is close elsewhere in the nation.

Among the Democrats, Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi has a holdout against the Kennedy-Johnson ticket. He is backing an unpledged electoral group to cast Mississippi's eight votes.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, lone Republican in attendance, said he is "very encouraged" about the prospects that the Nixon-Lodge ticket will carry his state. He said he has had reports the Republicans have a good chance of winning in Texas, Virginia, North Carolina and Florida.

Nixon Holds Edge
Farris Bryant, Democratic nominee for governor of Florida, told a news conference frankly he thinks Nixon has the edge now in the bidding for his state's 10 electoral votes. They went to President Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas, the conference host, was another who showed some reluctance about campaigning actively for the Democratic national ticket, which he said he is supporting.

Nehru told reporters in New Delhi Saturday night he was opposed to Khrushchev's proposal for abolishing Hammarskjöld's job. But he added to newsmen in a stop at Cairo that he thought the Soviet premier's speech did contain some constructive proposals that deserve careful consideration.

Nehru will meet with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and President Tito of Yugoslavia, who are the prime movers in an effort to establish a kind of "third force" in the East-West struggle.

Nehru is expected to meet also with Macmillan, Khrushchev and Eisenhower.

Asked about freedom of the press in the two countries, Khrushchev said his speech to the U.N. General Assembly on Friday was published in full by only one American newspaper, the New York Times, and that did not carry the text of four appendices which were given out in addition to his prepared speech.

By contrast the Soviet newspaper Izvestia published in full the speech Eisenhower made before the U.N. assembly the day before, Khrushchev said, adding: "There's freedom of the press for you."

Khrushchev spoke for about 4½ hours while Eisenhower's speech lasted about forty-five minutes.

Seven Killed In Auto Crash

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Seven persons died in a two-car collision north of here late Saturday night, including six members of one family.

A funeral director, Gladden Oliver of nearby Ansonia, said the six were in a station wagon which slid into a soybean field and exploded.

Soviets Set To Launch Man

Khrush Says Time Depends On Scientists

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Sunday his country is ready to launch a man into space but has not attempted it yet.

Khrushchev made the comment at the Soviet country estate at Glen Cove, Long Island, where he spent the weekend. He returned to the city in a motorcade that was booed by knots of people waving American flags along his route.

The premier said "it is difficult to say" just when the Soviet Union will launch its first space man "but we are prepared." He said it is up to Soviet scientists to decide the launching date.

Khrushchev also declared that unless the United Nations is re-organized as he wants it, the world "shall continue to be in a state of cold war."

Two Conferences
He made these statements at two separate, lengthy press conferences during a busy day winding up his weekend at the luxurious Soviet mansion in Glen Cove.

Then he headed back to New York for an evening date with India's Prime Minister Nehru, just arrived for the U.N. General Assembly meeting.

Just before departing on the 30-mile return trip to Manhattan, Khrushchev met at his suburban residence with another neutralist chief, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

Nkrumah said after their 1½-hour huddle that "there have been arguments both ways" between the two but "we are agreed that there will be peace in the world."

The African leader said he agreed with some, but not all of Khrushchev's far-reaching plan to supplant Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld with three secretaries-general. Under Khrushchev's proposal, one secretary-general would represent the Western nations, one would represent the Communist bloc and one would represent the neutrals.

Asks About Satellite
Khrushchev asked about the U.S. abortive attempt to shoot a moon orbit satellite and when told that it failed, said, "I sympathize."

Khrushchev made these other key points in his first press conference of the day.

1. He wants each one of his proposed three secretaries-general to have veto power over U.N. action.

2. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, who gave Hammarskjöld a $5 million check Friday as part of the U.S. payment supporting the U.N., was actually handing over a "bribe" for what Khrushchev said was Hammarskjöld's handling of the Congo situation in the interest of imperialism, capitalist powers.

3. The new U.S. moon shot will be greeted when it arrives as a comrade by the previously launched Soviet Lunik which he said is there already.

4. It is true that Khrushchev has promised to fire rockets at the United States should it interfere in Cuba. But Khrushchev downgraded the possibility that this would come about.

5. The Soviet missiles response to any U.S. attack on Cuba is a reciprocal call to the U.S. pledges to aid Iran and Turkey in case of Soviet attack there—and the Russians have no intention of attacking Turkey and Iran.

Herter told newsmen after the luncheon that he was greatly pleased with the outcome of the affair which "could not have been friendlier."

Herter told the African leaders: "I can assure you that we in America are genuinely interested in assisting you to achieve your natural aspirations of social and economic progress leading toward the elimination of poverty and illiteracy and disease, and the orderly development of your countries consistent with the ideals of freedom and justice."

Urging the new countries to help strengthen the United Nations, Herter said: "smaller states, in particular, it seems to me, have a deep interest in the work of the United Nations. It is designed to protect your independence and your territorial integrity. We can not afford to see its influence diminished or weakened."

Return To Korea
TOKYO (AP)—The 39th group of Koreans migrating from Japan to communist North Korea—this one numbering 997—reached Chongjin Sunday, Pyongyang radio reported. Since the migration started last December, under a Red Cross agreement, 40,615 persons have gone to North Korea from this country.

Nixon Proposes Broad Federa' Aid To Education
WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon Sunday proposed a program of federal aid to education that goes beyond anything that President Eisenhower has advocated in recent years.

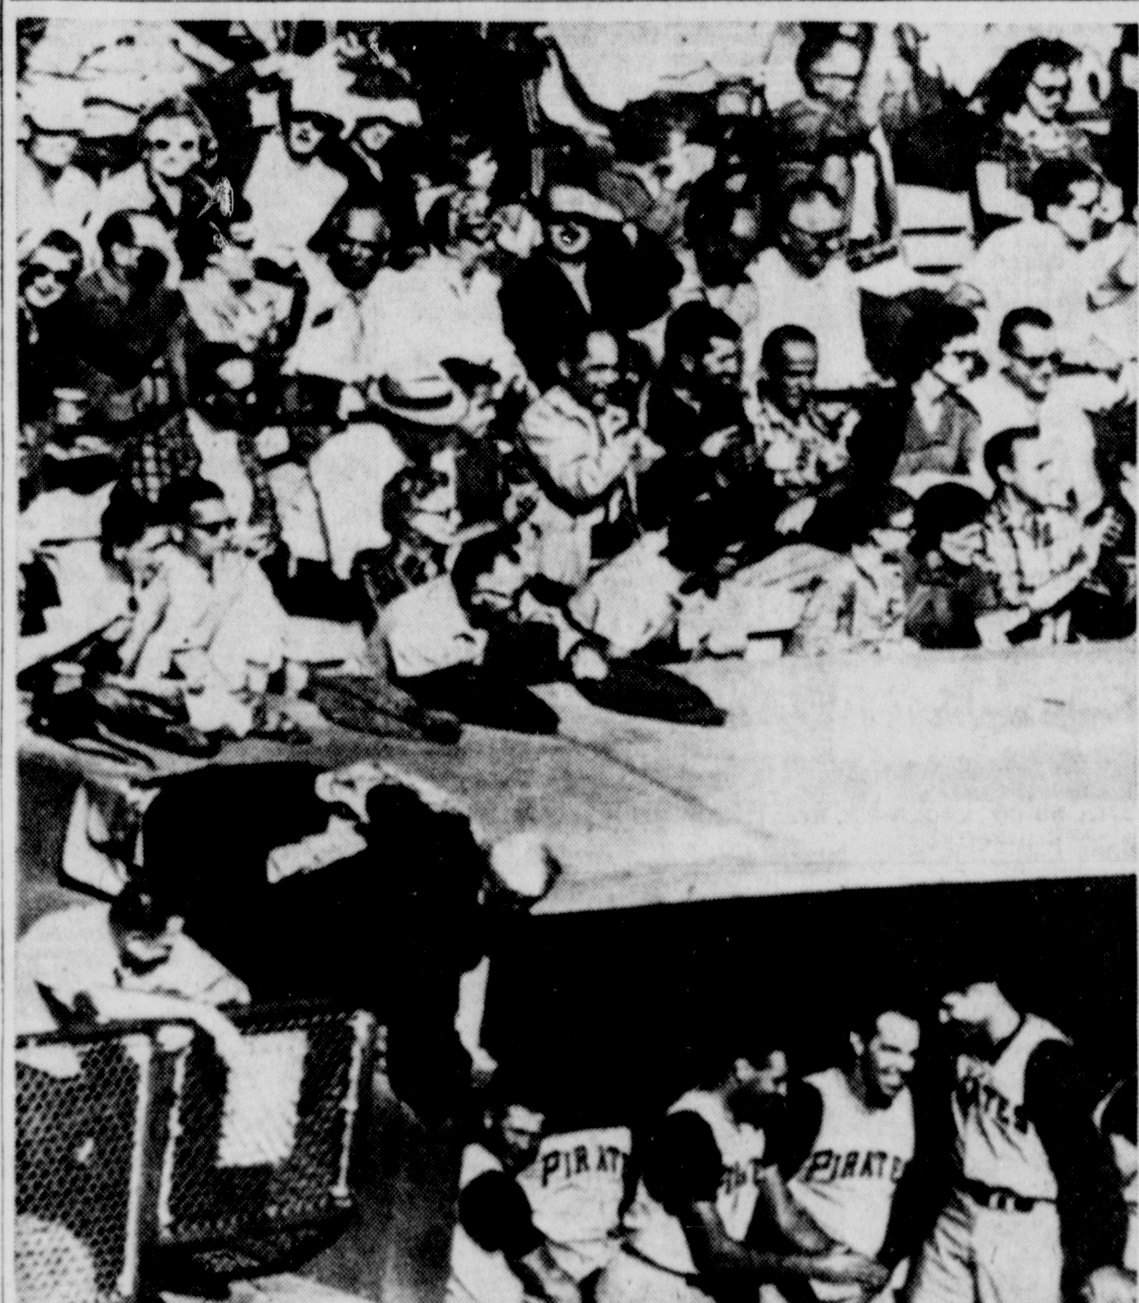

On the thorny issue of using federal funds to build classrooms and pay teachers' salaries, however, Nixon took a stand considerably short of that of Sen. John F. Kennedy, his Democratic opponent in the presidential campaign.

In the third of a series of "position papers," outlining his views on various national issues, Nixon said federal funds should be used to help build new public schools, and to help local school districts pay off bonded debt already incurred for school construction. The money thus freed, he said, could be used to raise teachers' salaries.

He said it is imperative that teachers' salaries be raised, but added, "at the same time, we must avoid the danger of rigid federal control over who teaches and what is taught in our public schools."

Kennedy and other Democrats have scoffed at the idea that federal funds for teachers' salaries could lead to federal control. He is urging federal grants to the states, with the states having the sole right to determine whether the funds should be used for construction or salaries or both.

Pennant Clinched, Pirates Happy

The Pittsburgh Pirates smile happily and begin to whoop it up while fans in the box seats shout congratulations when the news is announced that the Chicago Cubs had won over the St. Louis Cardinals, thus assuring the Buccaneers their first National League pennant in 33 years. The news came during the Pirates-Milwaukee Braves game at County Stadium in Milwaukee which Pittsburgh lost, 4-2. (See story on sports pages.)

Herter Pledges Support Of African Bloc

NEW YORK (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Sunday pledged strong and continuing U. S. aid to the newly independent nations of Africa and urged them to give solid support to the United Nations as their best guarantee of sovereignty.

Herter spoke at a luncheon he gave honoring the chief delegates of 12 newly admitted African states and the new Mediterranean republic of Cyprus.

President Sylvanus Olympio of Togo, responding to Herter's talk as part of the U.S. payment supporting the U.N., was actually handing over a "bribe" for what Khrushchev said was Hammarskjöld's handling of the Congo situation in the interest of imperialism, capitalist powers.

Olympio said it was "most encouraging" to hear the U. S. president say that "some guarantee should be given by the United Nations to the territorial integrity of the new independent states."

Herter told newsmen after the luncheon that he was greatly pleased with the outcome of the affair which "could not have been friendlier."

Herter told the African leaders: "I can assure you that we in America are genuinely interested in assisting you to achieve your natural aspirations of social and economic progress leading toward the elimination of poverty and illiteracy and disease, and the orderly development of your countries consistent with the ideals of freedom and justice."

Urging the new countries to help strengthen the United Nations, Herter said: "smaller states, in particular, it seems to me, have a deep interest in the work of the United Nations. Eisenhower Aides View
Khrushchev's threat to block disarmament until the United Nations is revamped to suit him as a cynical maneuver to frighten war-jittery countries into backing the Soviet proposals.

Eisenhower is banking heavily on the prospect his talks with Nehru and Nasser will help win the diplomatic battle against Khrushchev and his Communist allies.

Nehru Sees 'Good' Coming From UN Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India arrived Sunday by plane and said he thinks that "good" will come out of the current United Nations General Assembly meeting.

Dressed in his traditional white cap, brown robe and white cotton breeches, Nehru landed at Idlewild Airport on an Air India jet from New Delhi via London.

About 300 persons, including representatives of a number of Arab countries, were on hand to greet him.

Ike To Seek Support For UN
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, apparently in a grim mood, flies to New York Monday to rally neutralist support against Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's onslaught on the United Nations.

Resuming his personal diplomacy, the President has set up lengthy meetings Monday afternoon with two of the world's key neutralist leaders—Prime Minister Nehru of India and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Eisenhower is reported dismayed at the continuing bitterness of Khrushchev's language and is in no mood to even listen to suggestions that he get together with the Soviet leader.

Top Eisenhower aides view Khrushchev's threat to block disarmament until the United Nations is revamped to suit him as a cynical maneuver to frighten war-jittery countries into backing the Soviet proposals.

Eisenhower is banking heavily on the prospect his talks with Nehru and Nasser will help win the diplomatic battle against Khrushchev and his Communist allies.

Triumph For Stengel
The triumph for Stengel came only a year after a third-place finish which was his poorest showing since he became the Yankees' manager in 1949. The only other year in which the Yankees failed to win the pennant under Stengel was in 1954.

The Chicago White Sox were mathematically eliminated when they lost to the Cleveland Indians, 4-0.

Eddie Mathews hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning to give the Braves their victory over the Pirates but it didn't make any difference. The Pirates had already clinched when Glen Hobbie of the Cubs shut out the Cardinals.

Second Stage Of Rocket Doesn't Fire

Instrument-Packed Space Craft Burns Up In Atmosphere

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Rocket engine failure Sunday ruined an American bid to be first to place a space craft in orbit around the moon.

Instead of winging nearly a quarter-million miles to the moon and giving the United States a significant boost in its space race with the Soviet Union, Pioneer VI probably burned up in the earth's atmosphere after a flight of a few thousand miles. With it went an estimated $9 to $10 million in costs.

Dr. Adolph Thiel of the Space Technology Laboratories told newsmen it was the 5,000-pound second-stage engine of the three-stage Atlas-Able launching rocket that malfunctioned. He said it "ignited but burned in an abnormal fashion and did not burn its normal time of 110 seconds."

Stage Didn't Fire
Thiel said it was unlikely the third stage fired at all and added, "If it did, it would have been so far off trajectory that it would have plunged back into the earth's atmosphere."

(The vehicle had as its third stage an X-248 Altair rocket designed and developed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, operated by Hercules Powder Company for the Navy's Bureau of Weapons. The Altair, successful in all 16 previous firings, did not get a chance in Sunday's attempt, because the failure apparently was caused by the second stage.)

He guessed that the upper stage of the rocket with the 387-pound, instrument-packed space craft in its nose probably met fiery destruction in the atmosphere somewhere over the Indian Ocean.

Although keenly disappointed at this failure—especially since it came with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in this country—NASA will not abandon the moon satellite project.

Lawrence Hogarth, NASA project manager, said a backup rocket and payload are available to repeat the launching. He did not say when but other officials said it might come in two or three months. It was explained that analysis of what happened this time would determine the time for the next try.

Hogarth estimated the investment in Pioneer VI, in equipment and manpower, at $9 to $10 million.

First announcement of failure came an hour and eight minutes after the successful liftoff.

Quickly Disappears
The first stage of the huge Atlas-Able rocket fired satisfactorily at 10:13 a.m. and the missile quickly disappeared into the clouds.

Half an hour later, minutes beyond the scheduled firing times for ignition of second- and third-stage engines, newsmen were told "we do not have any positive information" on those firings.

This announcement by NASA came a few minutes after the big tracking station at Jodrell Bank, England, had told newsmen all three stages had fired successfully.

There was no immediate explanation of this conflict of reports. But several minutes after its first announcement it appeared that the huge Jodrell Bank telescope had not picked up the Pioneer VI rocket. And one spokesman said, "It doesn't look so good."

Still later, Prof. Bernard Lovell, director of the tracking telescope said reports from the United States indicated something went wrong with the third-stage firing making it over 6 degrees off its projected trajectory.

The satellite was aimed at a Tuesday night rendezvous with the moon after a 240,000-mile journey estimated to require 62 hours.

Castro Foes, Backers Clash

NEW YORK (AP)—Supporters and foes of Fidel Castro exchanged taunts, eggs and blows Sunday as more than 6,000 persons jammed sidewalks outside a Harlem hotel to watch the Cuban prime minister smile and wave from a window.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, Harlem's Democratic congressman, deplored Castro's "use of Harlem as a battleground for his own political ends."

Police picked up nine demonstrators for the bearded revolutionist outside his window. Others in the crowd appeared to be neutral spectators.

A loud group of Castro supporters stood screaming their devotion for the bearded revolutionist outside his window. Others in the crowd appeared to be neutral spectators.

But a smaller group of anti-

Castro demonstrators exchanged heated insults with the prime minister's fans. Twice eggs were smashed in the faces of police men.

Powell, a Negro, said Castro's "staying in Harlem is sheer hypocrisy."

"The last time he was in New York and a guest of the government he never even bothered to answer invitations by officials, including myself, to visit Harlem," Powell said. "I say this to let Dr. Castro know that the Negro people of Harlem are not dupes."

Powell made his comment at a meeting of Harlem war veterans. Despite the sporadic flareups, police were in control of the situation outside the Hotel Theresa, where Castro and his entourage are staying.

President Hears Talk On Budget At Church Services

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower attended 9 a.m. services at National Presbyterian church Sunday.

He heard budget talk—about the church's $210,000 annual budget—by Asst. Atty. Gen. Perry W. Morton.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Thomas A. Stone, an assistant pastor who just returned from several years in California. He spoke on Christian education, linking it to the miracle in which Christ turned water into wine at the wedding feast.

LEAMINGTON, England (UPI)—The Rev. Anthony Rouse, 42, warned Sunday that brides who arrive more than 10 minutes late for weddings at Leamington parish will find choirboys, bell-ringers and organist gone and will have to settle for a simple ceremony.

"Some brides think it is fashionable to keep everyone waiting," said Rouse, a bachelor.

Laos' Civil War Threat Facing U.N.

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—There is growing hope among foreign diplomats here that the United Nations will intervene before Laos' three-cornered civil war threatens to touch off a major East-West crisis.

Western military experts said Sunday rebel anti-Communist forces under Gen. Phoumi Nosavan cannot launch a successful drive against this administrative capital and stronghold of neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma without help from neighboring Thailand.

Thailand Premier Sarit Thanarat already has warned that his troops will invade Laos if what he calls Souvanna's Communist regime attempts to take over the entire country.

Western diplomats fear a tieup between Phoumi and Thailand could lead to an invasion by another neighbor, Communist North Viet Nam.

Reports here say U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld is expected to meet with Thai Foreign Minister Thanat Kohoman in New York Monday in an effort to restrain the Thai government from entering the Laos conflict.

Western military observers discount Phoumi's boast that he will seize Vientiane and also route pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels operating in the remote northern provinces. They pointed out that Phoumi's troops were thoroughly defeated last week in the only battle so far with Souvanna's forces. Phoumi was forced to retreat from Pakxane, 100 miles northeast of Vientiane, from which he had hoped to mount an attack on the capital.

TV Is Ready For Debate Of Kennedy, Nixon

CHICAGO (AP)—Television experts Sunday readied the arena where the two presidential candidates will meet face-to-face Monday night in the first of the "great debates" before millions of TV viewers.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican candidate, and Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy will face the cameras at 8:30 p.m. EST in a studio once used for wrestling matches.

Both planned to be in Chicago Sunday night, Nixon coming from Washington, and Kennedy returning from Cleveland, where he addressed a Democratic rally Sunday. Both will warm up for the hour-long TV appearance with speeches before the United Brotherhood of Carpenters Monday. Nixon speaking in the morning, Kennedy in the afternoon.

Then they will repair to Columbia Broadcasting System studios on the North Side, in a building that once was a riding club, later a sports arena. Private offices have been prepared for each.

Technical and security arrangements for the debate are lavish, with emphasis on a minimum of distraction for the stars of the show.

The "debate" label—a ghost of the great debates a century ago between Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas—is a misnomer, for Kennedy and Nixon won't debate in the grand manner of exchanging verbal volleys.

Kennedy will open the session with an eight-minute discussion of the topic—domestic policy. Nixon then will get equal time. A panel of television newsmen—newspapermen were barred, despite protests from both the Nixon and Kennedy camps—will direct questions to one of the candidates. He'll get three minutes to reply to each question. Then his opponent will get 1½ minutes to comment on the question and answer.

When only six minutes remain, each candidate will take over for a three-minute summary.

The "great debates" will continue Oct. 7 from New York; Oct. 13 on a split screen with Kennedy in New York, Nixon in Los Angeles, and Oct. 21 from New York.

Kennedy Says GOP Has Americans Caught In Cost-Of-Living Squeeze

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The biggest, wildest crowd of his campaign for the presidency greeted John F. Kennedy here Sunday and cheered his charge that the "Republican brand of prosperity" has caught millions of Americans in a cost-of-living squeeze.

Police Traffic Commissioner James B. Halloran estimated that 118,000 people greeted Kennedy at a Democratic rally in Euclid Beach Park.

"I've never seen anything like it," said Halloran of the tribute paid the Democratic presidential nominee. He, like veteran Cleveland newsmen, said it was the greatest turnout since former President Franklin D. Roosevelt's reception here in 1937.

The event was the annual steer roast of the Cuyahoga County Democrats.

Kennedy told them the Republicans have ignored their 1952 campaign promises to reduce living costs. The resulting inflation, he said, "hurts most of all those whom the Republican brand of prosperity has left far behind."

"The greatest influx of Communist leaders in history is in New York," Kennedy said, "because they think that time is moving in their direction."

The Massachusetts Senator defied the criticism voiced by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, his Republican rival, who has accused the senator of harming America's cause by pointing to defense shortcomings and demanding greater efforts on the military and economic fronts.

"I'm going to continue to say what I think should be said for the next six weeks and then the American people can make their judgment," Kennedy said.

Hitting at the Republican argument that "Americans never had it so good," Kennedy declared it comes at a time when "full prosperity is threatened and the peace of the world hangs in the balance." He touched on the civil rights issue, saying: "North or South we want fair treatment for all Americans regardless of their race, creed or color."

Kennedy's departure was the next thing to a mob scene. The candidate was jostled and rumpled as men, women and children crushed close to shake his hand, speaking a greeting or just touch his clothes.

Patuxent Institute Under Study By Legislative Body

BALTIMORE (AP) — G. C. A. Anderson, chairman of the Maryland Board of Correction, has proposed that the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents be separated from the State prison system.

Anderson made the suggestion Saturday as a Legislative Council commission opened hearings which may determine the future of Patuxent. The institution has been a subject of almost constant study since it was opened in 1955 as a pioneer project for the diagnosis, confinement and treatment of criminals who might be considered unusually dangerous because of mental or emotional deficiencies.

Anderson told the study commission headed by Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen that members of the Board of Correction believe Patuxent should not be under the supervision of the board.

"I don't want to run it," said

Anderson. "I don't know how to run it."

He suggested that Patuxent be given a separate budget and additional staff members for both treatment and correction.

Dr. Manfred S. Guttmacher, chairman of Patuxent's advisory committee, also appeared before the commission and proposed that the institution be merged with the Clifton T. Perkins Hospital for the criminally insane into a "Department of Criminal Psychiatry."

Guttmacher praised the work of Patuxent staff members and suggested they were wrongly blamed for the mass escape of 34 inmates last year.

"No one was hurt, no crimes were committed and most of the prisoners were back the next day," said Guttmacher.

"Considering all the problems we have had," he added, "I think Patuxent should be praised instead of damned."

Tawes To Buck Moves To Chip Tax Structure

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes says it is his duty to "guard the State Treasury with care and to continue to repulse any attempt to chip away at the State's tax structure."

The governor made the declaration in a statement clarifying his position in recent discussions about proposals to allow Baltimore City and county governments to levy sales taxes, with the State collecting the levy for them.

Tawes said local governments must recommend, initiate and provide the tax sources they need within a framework acceptable to the General Assembly and non-harmful to the State's own revenue system.

The governor defended his refusal to call a special session of the legislature to authorize State collection of a sales tax for Baltimore City.

In the statement Saturday he emphasized that his opposition was based not only on the State-collection feature of the proposal, but on the premise that the sales tax is a major source of State revenue and must therefore be protected from encroachment by local governments.

"Favorable economic conditions, together with increased taxes levied by the previous administration, have made it possible for me to balance the State budget thus far without imposing new taxes," said Tawes.

The budget may be balanced without a new tax again next year "and maybe the year after that," he said.

"But we cannot expect these favorable conditions to continue forever. Therefore, it is my duty to all of the people of the State to continue to guard the State treasury with care," Tawes added.

The governor repeated his promise to "promptly call a special session just as soon as Mayor (J. Harold) Grady presents a sound, feasible tax program which will not adversely affect the revenues of the State and which has the support of the city's representatives in the general assembly."

Voters Registering

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Newly registered voters in Montgomery County totaled 12,108 in the first three weeks of September, county election officials report.

The total included 6,424 Democrats, 4,628 Republicans and 1,056 persons who listed no party affiliations.

SRC Seeking New Engineers For Road Program

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roads Commission Chief John B. Funk, disclosing that only 10 per cent of the agency's 447 engineers are college graduates, has announced a recruitment and in-service training program to attract engineering talent.

The chairman-director of the Maryland commission said the project will be undertaken by the Division of Administration in his agency.

"We're committed to a road-building program that ranks among the largest in the nation," said Funk.

"An operation of this magnitude requires competent engineering management, and one way we can move to acquire it is to soup up our recruitment and in-service training programs."

Propellant Plant Has 70th Birthday

INDIAN HEAD, Md. (AP)—The 70th anniversary of the U.S. Naval Propellant plant here was noted Sunday.

The plant, which began producing gunpowder in the 1890s, now deals in missile-age products.

It turns out, among other things, powder for satellites and missiles.

In contrast to the 50 employees working at the plant at the beginning, the establishment now has 2,310 civilians including 263 scientists and engineers working on propellants for advanced missile systems.

The accident rate for school-trained teen-age drivers is 50 per cent lower than the rate for those who "just learned" to drive.

HAVE YOU WONDERED?

Why people attend church? why people attend Central Assembly? why young people, living in the space age, would want to attend old-fashioned religious services night after night and twice on Sundays?

The old timers called it a "protracted meeting". We call it a heaven sent "revival". To hundreds of people who have found God and peace and joy and love and happiness it's the greatest thing that has ever come into their lives. Why not attend one of the services this week and discover for yourself what God can do for you and your family.

Presbyterians Of Area Rally At Winchester

Evangelism Work To Be Emphasized

WINCHESTER, Va. — A mass rally which is expected to draw 1500 Presbyterians from the area will climax weeks of intensive evangelistic organization work on October 3. The rally, one of four separate meetings which will be held during a two-day period, will be the local highlight of a south-wide evangelism Cavalcade.

In 90 cities, 23 teams of leaders will conduct special evangelism training sessions during a ten-day period in October. The team which will come here October 3 and 4 will guide all Presbyterians in the area in intensive meetings.

The mass rally will be held in Handley High School auditorium and will feature Dr. John W. Melton Jr., of Baton Rouge, La., pastor of The First Presbyterian Church of that city.

Preparations for the Cavalcade and rally are being headed up in Winchester, by Philip Hunter of First Presbyterian Church of Winchester. He heads a Presbyterians-wide committee of 20, preparing to feed some 550 at a dinner and breakfast meeting, and to play host to leaders and officers from all Presbyterian churches of the area at the three other meetings.

The purpose of the church-wide Cavalcade program is to train Presbyterians in more effective evangelism methods and inspire them for evangelism efforts in 1961. The denomination will place a special emphasis on evangelism in 1961 through the Presbyterian Mission to the Nation.

VFW To Hold Annual Party At Lonaconing

LONACONING — Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at their membership meeting on Thursday evening at the V.F.W. home made plans for their annual kick-off party to be held on October 7 with admission by 1960 and 1961 membership cards. Refreshments will be served.

The VFW post is not sponsoring and advertising and has no one in this area soliciting for Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, V.F.W. The public is warned that they are not soliciting or buying ads. Such solicitation is not sanctioned and should be reported immediately to authorities.

A fifty-star flag was donated by the widow of Stanley Davis who asks that the American flag be flown on the VFW flag pole over the Soldier's Monument at the First Presbyterian churchyard.

A new dance band will be playing at the Saturday night dances this season at the post home. "The Pete Harper Trio" featuring Pete Harper on the bass has been engaged.

New Ice Making Machine Installed

A new and unique ice making machine, shown above, has been installed on top of the Moorefield plant of the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative. The machine produces 31 tons of clear clamshell ice daily, and replaces a much smaller and inadequate unit.

Moorefield Rockingham Poultry Plant Is Being Modernized And Enlarged

MOOREFIELD — The Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative is installing one of the largest scales in the state at the Moorefield plant. The new scales will weigh the largest trailer trucks and tractors and is accurate within an eight pound tolerance up to 100,000 pounds.

The new scales will be all steel and concrete and is manufactured by the Howe Scale Company. Workmen have been installing the concrete pit and assembling the steel for the past two weeks. The platform for the huge weighing device is longer than a railroad car and the entire platform has a clearance of only three eighths of an inch. It will take 28 days for the concrete to cure after it is poured. The platform is 60 feet long and 10 feet wide.

Roger Parrish, manager of the Moorefield plant for Rockingham, said the operation is automatic and the weight shows on a dial as well as on a printed scale ticket. A bonded weighmaster will be on duty at the scales when it is in use. Parrish said the scales would not only be used for the poultry trucks bringing in the live poultry but are available for commercial use by feed companies or any other haulers using the huge tractor-trailer trucks. One feature of the scales is that it will weigh the axles separately if necessary to give the truckers the axle weights.

Rockingham is also installing a new ice making machine which will have a capacity of 31 tons daily using the same compressors which now manufacture twelve tons of ice daily. The unique machine stands three stories high and consists of a series of 12-foot stainless steel cylinders about six inches in diameter. Water flowing down the vertical cylinders is chilled and frozen around the tubes. Every fifteen minutes the freezing gasses are reversed and hot gas shoots through the cylinders, releasing a tube of ice. These ice tubes are broken into six-inch lengths and fall into a storage pit, piling up into clam shell shaped pieces of clear ice. The compressor, operated by a 100 horse power electric motor, will be in continuous operation.

Parrish said that in hot weather the daily demand for ice is about 45 tons compared with the capacity of the new machine of 31 tons, but over weekends, an ice bank reserve of 75 tons would be built up which would be depleted during the week.

The new ice making machine is housed in an insulated aluminum clad unit on top of the building. After the ice falls into the storage pit it is carried to five drops or stations by high speed screw conveyors. Ice will be conveyed up to 225 feet by the conveyors which can deliver 20 tons of ice an hour. The operation is controlled by push buttons. Three separate motors operate the conveyor system which first elevates the ice and then delivers it to any of the five stations automatically as desired. The machine was designed by the Fort Worth Steel Company, Fort Worth, Texas.

Rockingham is also erecting a new addition to the building in the rear to completely enclose the area for the offal trucks. These trucks are constructed in two compartments, one for the entrails and one for the feathers. Both items, formerly wasted as refuse, are now taken to the plant at Broadway, Va., for processing. The trucks are loaded automatically by conveyors.

The Moorefield plant of the Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative is currently processing over half a million pounds of poultry per week, representing 155,000 birds or over 30,000 daily. There are currently 144 employees at the plant.

Ground Rules For The 'Great Debate'

Television viewers who expect a free-swinging verbal battle between Sen. Kennedy and Vice President Nixon in their initial face-to-face television appearance tonight are likely to be disappointed. The widely heralded "Great Debate" between the two Presidential aspirants will not, of course, be entirely lacking in forensic fireworks. But the ground rules, negotiated by the candidates' aides with all the care of a nuclear weapons treaty, practically guarantee that no real discussion or interplay of ideas between the two men will result.

If the candidates carry on according to plan, this is what will take place:

The first 16 minutes of the 60-minute program will be given over to opening statements, eight minutes per man. Then, five news media representatives will alternate in asking questions of the candidates in a kind of glorified news conference.

When Vice President Nixon is being examined, he will have two and a half minutes to reply to each question; then Sen. Kennedy will have one and a half minutes to comment on the reply, and vice versa. Closing summaries of three or four minutes each will bring the so-called debate to a close. This format will be followed in both tonight's debate on domestic issues and the debate of October 21 on foreign policy. An October 7 joint appearance, and another on October 13, will be even less likely to generate serious discussion because the two antagonists are expected to be in different cities. They will be brought together electronically on a split screen to answer questions put to them by another team of newsmen.

In addition to the obvious risk of a serious misstep in the coming debates, some authorities on broadcasting believe the candidates run the risk of overexposure on the television screen. Neither seems to have headed such advice, as witness recent or forthcoming appearances. Party managers have turned thumbs down on invitations to the two to give a sort of civics lesson on "Captain Kangaroo," an early show for children. The lollipop crowd will not go to the polls on election day.

These Days

The Congress Of Evil

What is actually happening in New York is an exhibition of unbelievable impudence. Khrushchev, for instance, assumes that he is free to come and go in the United States without the usual visa, without a health certificate, without the consent of the Government of the United States. His presumption is based upon his right to attend the General Assembly of the United Nations. There is no treaty to that effect. All that is required, however, is that he should have access to the United Nations buildings. Such access has been amply provided.

The psychology of Khrushchev's attitude is interesting; it is that of a conqueror who has already conquered the United States as well as other countries: it is that of a strong man who can ignore the laws that apply to other men. He objects to the unusual precautions that have been taken to guard him as a form of "house arrest."

Actually, it is excessive. Nothing in any treaty between the United States and the United Nations or any member state thereof requires the United States to guard the person of any delegate thereto. Great men have attended the United Nations. Never before has an entire city become disrupted, its police force concentrated on a single task of protecting delegates to the United Nations. Never before has the City of New York been put to such an enormous expense because some foreigners chose to come to the city.

These are the actual facts of the situation. Added to Khrushchev is Castro who is a publicity hound of unbelievable proportions and who organized the by-play of moving from an ordinary hotel to a Negro hotel in Harlem, paying as much or more for services. This is clearly a public relations stunt. Does Castro seek by this curious step to proclaim himself a Negro leader? He and Khrushchev refused to applaud President Eisenhower's appearance at the United Nations, an ordinary courtesy extended a speaker.

The mobs that congregated, the picketing, the employment of Communist goons to drive off anti-Communist pickets, the tying up of traffic on busy streets raises the question as to whether the United Nations buildings are properly situated.

Back in 1945, when this thing was being planned, many of us were opposed to this Tower of Babel being placed in over-crowded Manhattan where traffic is congested and the streets are narrow. The United Nations should have met in the old League of Nations Palace in Geneva, Switzerland. An effort was made to purchase an enormous site in Westchester County in New York State but such a fuss was made about a state within a state that the project was abandoned as it should have been.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. had the land assembled on the bank of the East River for the United Nations building. Up went a structure that resembled a glass and steel tombstone. On the streets near the United Nations a number of buildings have been erected which relate themselves to international affairs. However, no hotel was built anywhere near the United Nations. Instead the 51 nations originally members of the United Nations scattered themselves about New York in hotels, apartment houses and so-called town houses. If demonstrations are held for or against anything, they are always in a very crowded street in the heart of the city.

Now there are 96 member states and each one has an embassy of sorts in New York. Those attached to these delegations enjoy extra-territoriality — not only the delegates but also their employees and attendants. Extraterritoriality means that they live under their own laws. The laws of the State of New York, the laws of the United States, the municipal ordinances of the City of New York do not apply to them. Actually, their marked automobiles regularly violate traffic regulations to the annoyance of New Yorkers who must obey them. They are parked in front of fire hydrants as though that were the right of U.N. personnel.

Now that the United Nations membership has nearly doubled, the problems arising from the United Nations, the physical and psychological problems will not only double but quadruple. The troubles we now face are not as great as the troubles we shall face, particularly as many of the delegates are unaccustomed to our type of urban life and to the need for self-restraint in a free society.

Record Of The Rocks: The Remorseless River

NEW YORK

By Joseph Alsop

Khrushchev, or Eisenhower, or Castro, or Hammarskjold no doubt should be the subject of this report. But the spectacle of this United Nations General Assembly all but demands some mention of a rather less personal and much less mortal hero.

History is in truth the hero here, and not these tiny, improbable, impermanent national leaders who are posturing before the world and the U.N. audience and the folks back home as politicians have postured since the beginning of time. Consider, for example, what lay behind the formal, outwardly so up-to-date ritual of the admission of the new nations to the U.N.

Immediately behind this ritual, of course, was the considerable drama, in itself world-transforming, of the sudden surge and almost equally sudden collapse of the Western imperialist impulse. These Africans, these Cypriotes, belong to new-made nations which are hardly nations, at least as yet. In fact, they are imperialist left-overs, whose future abruptly depends on the will and wisdom of the once-ruled because of the abrupt withdrawal of the former rulers.

But consider just the Africans, whom most Westerners think had no true history before they saw the West. Before the Western empire builders, there were the slave traders, both Arab and white, deforming, brutalizing, staining with blood almost every tribal society in Africa's dark center.

Then before the slave-traders, there were the contests over the Sahara caravan routes, those roads of gold and ivory; and linked with these, there was the rise and fall of a long series of Negro and Arab-Negro empires, variously based in Timbuktu and Benin and God knows where else. Great power they had, for a while. Great plunder they took or lost. In their armies, and in the armies that struck at them, thousands upon thousands might die in a single grim campaign.

Yet even these convulsions of the half-known past sink into insignificance, beside the much vaster convulsion which is not truly known, but can now be clearly deduced from the record of the rocks.

The rocks to read are in Tassili, in the North Sahara, a place so dry and bare and lifeless that any man who goes there risks his life. The brilliant French student, Andre Lhote, took the risk with a strong team to help him. And he and his team brought back the Tassili rock-frescoes, carefully copied, with their late paleolithic spearmen, and their ominous, brooding, nameless gods; and their cattle and charioteers and Egyptianized beauties, and their scenes of the chase and love and war.

Layer upon layer of the human past, intrusion after foreign intrusion, can be deciphered in these works of magic art. But above all, one can decipher a vast catastrophe of nature — the gradual drying up, the transformation into desert of the limitless Sahara, which once was rich with meadows and sweet streams and full of game and green with grass to pasture the horses of the Tassili charioteers and the herds of the Tassili cattle-tenders.

In that catastrophe, ethnologists now think, is the real reason for the dark men in neat blue suits who came to the bar of the U.N. to represent the new African states. Before the Sahara became desert, the Negro peoples lived further North, and Africa's dark center, it is supposed, was the preserve of the little pygmies who

NEW RULES — He probably won't go anywhere, out freshman Senator Joseph S. Clark (D, Pennsylvania, wants to do something about Senate debating rules that have made that body one of the most agonizing, as well as long-winded legislative operations in a practicing democracy.

Clark wants to change the rules that now permit senators to talk about anything for hours or days at a time in the midst of debate on legislation of vital interest to the well-being of the United States.

He also wants to change the rule that permits the objection of one senator to prohibit a committee from considering such legislation while the Senate is in session.

Among others, he wants to give senators permission to enter their Senate speeches in the main body of the Congressional Record without the present requirement that they be read in full, usually a time-consuming operation before an empty chamber.

Clark plans to propose these rule changes, and others, to the Senate on the opening day of the next session, when such proposals are in order. There are long, long odds against him as some of his changes would curtail the devices used to produce an effective filibuster.

Happy Retirement Requires Preparation

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Planning for retirement makes sense because everyone must have something to live for. But it is doubtful whether one person in 10 has the foresight to achieve the philosophy needed, even those with diversified interests and ample funds.

Good health is the basic ingredient for happy and successful post-retirement years. But this is not the time of life to regain all that pep and vitality that was squandered in previous decades. Nor is it the time of life to expect that high blood pressure will return to normal automatically that new vessels will grow to replace hardened arteries, or that an abused liver will be rejuvenated.

The individual should plan for health by having periodic examinations, starting 10 to 15 years before retirement is anticipated. In this way minor infections can be eradicated before they contribute to deterioration of the body. The middle-aged man should get back to normal weight and start reducing an elevated blood pressure.

The plan ought to include regular exercise and good dietary and living habits. A man in his fifties is better able to maintain his health by resting more and spending some time relaxing every day or every weekend. A real vacation annually recharges the batteries and repairs some of the damage done by daily wear and tear.

Learn to control excesses and extremes during the decades preceding retirement. Acquire a philosophy that will help in accepting the doubts, fears, and infirmities of the declining years. Come to terms with the inevitable. How else can a person cross the bridge into the third and what should be the happiest period of life? Retirement is another milestone of life. Don't look upon it as old age, senility, or an approach to the grave.

Castro Got Encouragement In His Effort To Woo American Negroes

By Drew Pearson

NEW YORK — Fidel Castro's sudden flutter from a midtown New York Hotel to one in Harlem, leaving chicken feathers behind, was part of a carefully calculated move to hit the United States where the Communist world considers us weak—with our Negro population. It was also calculated to influence the 13 new African U.N. members at a time when broad-grinning Nikita Khrushchev was wooing them and we were not.

The man largely responsible for Castro's interest in American Negroes is Robert F. Williams, of Monroe, N.C., who was temporarily suspended from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People for preaching that Negroes should meet violence with violence.

Williams has visited Cuba several times, helped to organize the "Committee for Fair Play for Cuba" and has invited Castro to visit him in North Carolina.

"Immediately after I went to Cuba," Williams told me over the long-distance telephone, "I started publicizing the fact that in Cuba I felt as if I belonged to the human race. In Havana I attended some of the street rallies and for the first time I found racial equality."

"I have been telling the Negro press that they could expect Castro to sympathize with the Negro peoples of the world. He is a great friend of the Negro people."

Castro To South?

"I have invited Castro to come down here to see how the Negroes live in the South," Williams continued. "I have been denied a job. I have been subjected to economic pressure. I have had my insurance canceled three times because I was too great a risk. When I got a job as a machinist in a textile plant in another county, 40 miles away, the Ku Klux Klan followed me over there, reported that I was a member of the NAACP, and I was fired. So I wanted Castro to come down and see the conditions under which Negroes work in the South."

"Is he coming?" I asked. "No, I have a telegram that the State Department won't let him move outside of Manhattan. So I'm going up to see him," Williams replied. "We Negroes are going to start making friends in other places. We're not making progress in this country and we're not satisfied with our Uncle Tom leaders who tell us we are. The white people's hearts are so hard we can't appeal to 'em any more. I told this to Castro when I saw him in Cuba. And I told it to all of Cuba by TV and radio and in the Cuban press."

Williams said that more and more Negroes are looking to Cuba for leadership in this hemisphere, and that North Carolina Negroes paid his way to New York in order to catch Cuban Airways to Havana. Once he got to New York, the Cuban Government gave him a free trip the rest of the way.

Williams also said he was well acquainted with Castro's chief-of-staff, Maj. Juan Almeida, the full-blooded Negro who runs the Cuban army. Major Almeida was suddenly flown to New York after Castro moved to Harlem, in order to participate in a round of talks with American Negro leaders. Almeida cannot read or write, is about 30 years old, and is reported greatly interested in close contacts with American Negroes.

Note—Last spring Joe Louis, ex-heavyweight boxing champ, and William L. Rowe, former deputy New York police commissioner, were part of an all-Negro public relations firm which signed a $285,000 contract with Castro's tourist bureau to encourage Negro travel to Havana. Louis later withdrew. However, various American Negro leaders were given free trips to Cuba.

Africa Has Balance Of Power

The spectacular manner in which Fidel Castro planted his entourage in Harlem has not been lost on Negro leaders of the new African republics. Nor have they been at all displeased by the way Premier Khrushchev, leader of the mighty Soviet bloc, has come up to them to shake hands and be photographed on the U.N. Assembly floor. They are now being invited to Soviet and Cuban headquarters singly and in groups for further socializing.

Meanwhile Secretary of State Herter gave a luncheon for the 13 new African nations on Sunday. Eisenhower has also conferred with some of them. But they have not been invited to Washington, though the most effective counter to the Soviet-Cuban wooing would be an invitation to the White House.

State Department officials admit privately that they would like to see President Eisenhower invite a long list of presidents, prime ministers and foreign ministers to Washington for lunch and private talks. They point out that with so many new African states coming into the U.N., 40 per cent of its 99 votes are now controlled by the Afro-Asian bloc, and that Khrushchev's smiles and back-slaps have been very effective in wooing these delegates.

It was a Cuban public relations man who arranged for that bear hug which Khrushchev gave Fidel Castro on the U.N. Assembly floor. The P.R. man suggested to Mr. K that he go over and greet the Cuban dictator who was sitting up near the front of the chamber. Khrushchev was in the rear. Obliging, Mr. K walked all the way up to the Cuban delegation, to give Fidel the big embrace. Photographers had a field day. . . . Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, who was such an effective campaigner for the Democrats in the last two elections, had been neutralized this time. Shrewd Republicans appointed him a U.S. Delegate to the U.N. So he twiddles his thumbs and listens to speeches instead of haranguing against Nixon. Sens. George Aiken, Vermont Republican, an effective campaigner among farmers, is also benched. He's a U.N. delegate too.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

It was a sunny afternoon for everyone but me. The brassy god of blue skies threw long cubist shadows of skyscrapers across Manhattan. On the streets, the toothpaste of traffic squeezed slowly through the tube. I picked a moment like that to lose my mind.

The car was a 1953 model and Harry Oshrin had asked me to drop him off on Madison Avenue between 49th and 50th. Mr. Oshrin was Mark Hellinger's lawyer. We talked about Hellinger and the fun we had when journalism was yellow and cheap. I came out of 48th street, turned north, and stopped opposite the Liberty Music Shop.

Mr. Oshrin got out. He said thanks and slammed the door. It was a day like any other day except that I was dreaming. I pulled away from the curb and, on a green light, swung west into 50th Street. This is an ordinary maneuver, except that 50th Street is an east-bound street.

As I made the turn, I saw a number of automobiles coming down 50th toward me, and I thought: "Boyoboy, are they going to catch it when the policeman sees them." How could so many drivers be so stupid at the same time? The front of my car got into 50th Street, and the back was part-way across Madison Avenue, when I realized that thing was wrong with my mentality.

I stopped. At once, a symphony of horns began. The Elude To Night Court, Opus One. Some of the cars on Madison tried to move around behind me, and got caught in the northbound traffic. This tied everything so neatly that no one could move. The horns became louder and, in the din, a cab driver stuck his head out the window and said: "You nuts or something?"

I said yes. The light changed for cross-town traffic and no one on 50th Street could get by me, and the Madison Avenue group was so snarled that I couldn't back up. So I just sat and wondered why this was a day like any other day. For a moment, I wondered idly if I had left my brains in my other trousers. The noise became louder and heads popped out of skyscraper windows, and someone tore paper and permitted the confetti to flutter down.

I looked south on Madison Avenue and saw two policemen. It was 4 p. m. and they were coming on duty. The big one smiled at me, almost paternally. When he came up to the car, he had to stoop to look in.

"Take your time, buddy-boy," he said. "It may take me fifteen minutes to write out all the violations."

He was helpful. He stopped traffic four ways, and then began to route some of the cars from behind me. Then, with a little bow, he asked me to back up and pull over to the curb. The car wouldn't start. The automatic choke became unautomatic, and I began to perspire. "Don't rush," the policeman said. "I'm on until midnight."

The engine started, and I backed up, swung left, and pulled into the curb. The policeman first got the flow of traffic in order, then he came over to my car, and leaned down on the window sill.

"Funny thing," he said pleasantly. "I was just talking to a policeman coming on duty with me. We were talking about lieutenant. He's a very tough gentleman, this lieutenant. When we lined up before coming out on duty, he took us apart for not writing up traffic violations. He called us names, practically."

"Then he walked down the line, and asked to see my summons book. He looked at it and called me a bad example for the traffic division. I haven't written a summons since last May. So you can see, mister, I felt pretty bad. That is, until we spotted you. I turned to the other cop and I said: 'Look, there's my little pigeon. He's all mine.'"

I presented my license. The policeman leaned on his knee to start writing. He was muttering all the violations in the book: wrong way on a one-way street; careless driving; impending traffic; and so forth. This, I guess, is what is known as being hit with the book.

He looked at the license again. He frowned. "You the writer?" he said. I nodded. "You the one whose father was a cop?"

"My grandfather too," I said. The frown deepened. He shook his head in sorrow. "I know who you are," he said. "You once wrote a little booklet for policemen. It had a funny title."

"Never Give a Cop an Even Break," I said.

"Yeah," he said. "A left-handed title." He bent back to the task of writing. "Okay," he growled. "You went the wrong way on a one-way street and that's all. Nothing else happened. Now get out of here before I start thinking of the lieutenant again."

Some time ago I began an article on my intensive researches in the field of mental health. The research required so much time that I began to wonder if the efforts were worthwhile. Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: My mother makes me sick.

The other day a dreamy guy came by in his convertible to take me swimming. He tooted the horn and I was not quite ready so he kept at it. My mother looked out the window and when she saw him she became like a maniac. She hollered, "You are NOT riding any place with that shameless kid. He's naked."

I told her we were going swimming and he was wearing swimming trunks. She said, "Unless he puts a top on you are not leaving this house."

I finally went out and told him he'd have to slip on a shirt or I couldn't go. He said he wasn't putting on a shirt for anybody, and drove off leaving me on the sidewalk. I haven't heard from this fellow since and I'm heart-sick. I think my mother did me terrible dirt.

Since you told the boy that your mother wouldn't let you ride with him unless he put on a shirt, he should have had enough respect for both your mother — and for you — to comply.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I are very friendly with a couple. The man works with my husband but he has a higher position.

I don't enjoy their company much because the man usually gets plastered and talks through his hat. The woman, whom I'll call Kitty, is a good-looking gal with a nice figure. When she wears something with stripes my husband says, "You look just like a cute little sailor boy." If I wear anything with stripes he says, "Where did you get that horror? You look like a zebra."

The other evening Kitty had two drinks and said she didn't want any more. My husband mixed her a drink anyway, put it in her hand and tried to force the glass to her lips. This burned me up. I told him it was unbecoming. He says I'm being petty. What do you think?—PIQUED

DEAR PIQUED: It was unbecoming to try to get Kitty to drink more than she wanted. Also stupid. When people have sense enough to know when to stop, they shouldn't be encouraged to drink more. On the other hand, you are little less than smart to draw the battle lines so clearly.

I suggest you scout around for some new and interesting friends. Too much of this couple could be no good for your marriage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 14 years old and I don't know a LOT about life, but I do know something.

So many girls who write to you say they made a big mistake because their boy friends asked them to prove their love and they didn't know how to get out of it.

The solution is so simple I'm surprised they don't think of it. Why don't these girls ask their boy friends to prove THEIR love by leaving them alone? — NO GENIUS.

To learn the booby-traps of teen-age drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Multiple Sclerosis Victim Is 'Man With A Mission'

By PETER J. HAYES

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Although confined to a wheel chair for the past several years, Henry J. Kaiser Jr. is a man with a mission.

The lanky, 43-year-old son of the famed industrialist believes there is a sure way to take the initiative over communism in the underprivileged, uncommitted nations.

American private enterprise, he said, must forge partnerships with the peoples and governments of these countries.

And how to do this? By operating in foreign lands with native capital, native work forces, including supervisors, and native suppliers.

Said Kaiser: "This instrument of private enterprise represents the greatest living force we have against communism—the placement of the tools of democracy, in terms of machinery, full employment and private individual ownership, in the hands of our neighbors in the poorer countries."

Kaiser, as a vice president of Kaiser Industries Corp. (60 affiliated companies, $945 million annual sales), has criss-crossed the continent in recent years hammering at the partnership theme in speeches.

In 1944, while in charge of Kaiser-operated artillery shell plants in Denver and Fontana, Calif., he was stricken with multiple sclerosis.

He refused to submit to a program of rest for the crippling disease and plunged into one of intensive physical therapy. He continued a daily work schedule.

To pursue his speaking program requiring some 25,000 miles of air travel a year, Kaiser must be hoisted on and off airliners by fork-lift truck.

Kaiser said the Oakland-based corporation tries to make partnership a byword of its overseas operations, which include manufacturing, assembly and construction projects in 26 foreign countries.

As an example, he cited the five-year-old Kaiser plant at Cordoba, Argentina, which manufactures Willys Jeeps and Kaiser passenger cars.

"When we began, about 30 per cent of each vehicle was made locally," Kaiser said. "Today no less than 90 per cent of each start a new exercise, be sure to Jeep and Kaiser Carabela car is made from parts supplied by more each time."

more than 1,000 Argentine companies, the majority of which have sprung up in answer to these demands.

Kaiser said the company has made it a practice to limit its ownership of a foreign company to 50 per cent or less. It's better to be identified as a locally-owned company, he said.

Only 40 of Cordoba's 3,000 employees are non-Argentines.

But perhaps the most important "partnership" aspect of the Cordoba plant is the three-way capitalization. Kaiser Industries put up 30 per cent of the capital the government put up 20 per cent and the balance came from a stock issue that was bought by more than 10,000 Argentines.

Kaiser described a stockholder as "an individual who, once he has paid his own money for this share in ownership and has participated in the earnings of ownership, will strenuously resist all attempts of foreign governments, or of dictators from within, to collectivize an economy, destroy private initiative and degrade humanity."

Kaiser said he believed the partnership plan reduces to the vanishing point any fears of the possibility of expropriation. But what about recent unhappy United States' experiences on that score in Cuba?

"What I have said still goes," he replied. "We've got to work from a partnership basis, and involve ourselves in a country's destiny and growth if we are to survive and grow ourselves."

"But this is an opportunity — for by giving others the means to independence and self-attainment, we ourselves will profit in terms of a general prosperity experienced the world over."

WIFE PRESERVERS

Even an athletic person can get a severe strain with a muscle he doesn't use often. So when you start a new exercise, be sure to start it gradually, doing a little more each time.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

- Q 1—As South you hold:
♠ J 8 7 ♥ A Q 10 9 7 4 ♦ A ♣ A K 5
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
3 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass 4 ♥ Pass
- Q 2—As South you hold:
♠ 10 7 2 ♥ A J 10 9 7 5 ♦ K 7 2 ♣ 3
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
- Q 3—As South you hold:
♠ A J 8 5 ♥ A K 9 6 ♦ A K 7 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Six hearts. North has shown a good hand, first by responding at the level of two, then by showing the spade control and subsequently by supporting hearts. He should, therefore, have the necessary ingredients to produce 12 tricks.

Q 4—As South you hold:
♠ 10 7 2 ♥ A J 10 9 7 5 ♦ K 7 2 ♣ 3
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner has shown a strong hand, one on which he can win at least eight or nine tricks himself. You should, therefore, be conscious of slam, and it is suggested that you bid at least five spades. This is a vague sort of bid, of course. At this level it is hard to be precise, but you must get across to partner the notion that you have some cards which will be highly useful to him.

Q 5—As South you hold:
♠ A J 8 5 ♥ A K 9 6 ♦ A K 7 6 4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. While we did not choose to open this hand with a two demand bid, prospects are better now than they were at the start, simply because hearts, a suit which would have done us no good, are marked with both opponents. This makes the likelihood very great that we will find a fit with one of our suits in partner's hand. Under the circumstances, we consider the three heart bid slightly superior to a takeout double.

Q 6—As South you hold:
♠ 9 ♥ A Q 10 8 6 ♦ A 7 5 ♣ A Q 13
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Double again. Even though partner was unable to make a free bid, you should not abandon this hand, which contains 13 points in high cards. A bid of two diamonds is not recommended; the double could result in a late leave-in by partner, which might prove profitable.

Q 7—As South, both sides vulnerable, you hold:
♠ A 7 4 2 ♥ A K 8 6 4 ♦ J 6 ♣ 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♠ ?

What do you bid?
A.—Pass. There is no action that you can take with safety. Against an opening bidder and an adversary who has been able to respond at the level of two, it is extremely risky to reach for an eight trick contract with a hand that may well produce no more than four tricks. If the bidding dies prematurely

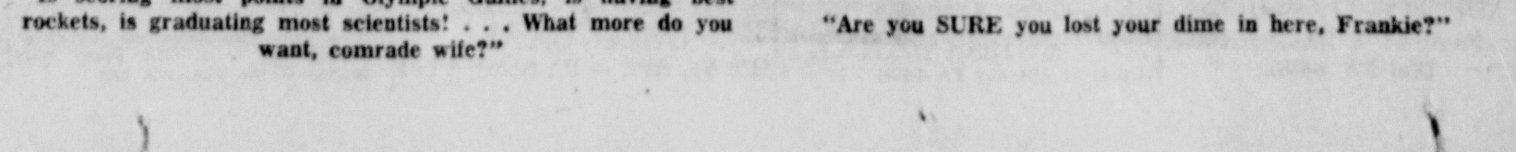

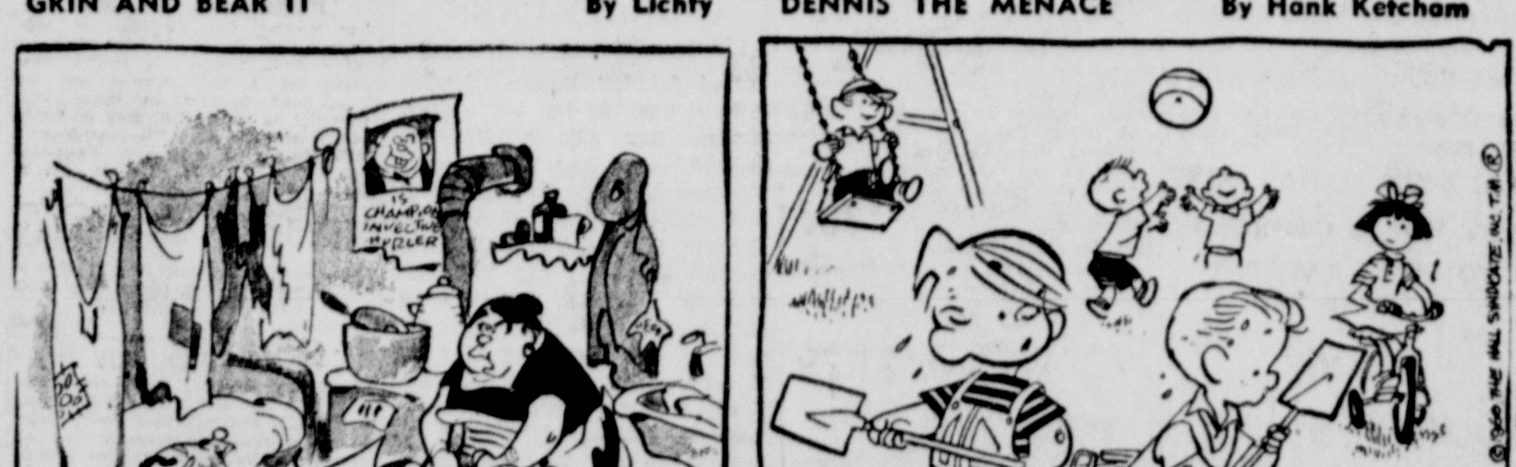

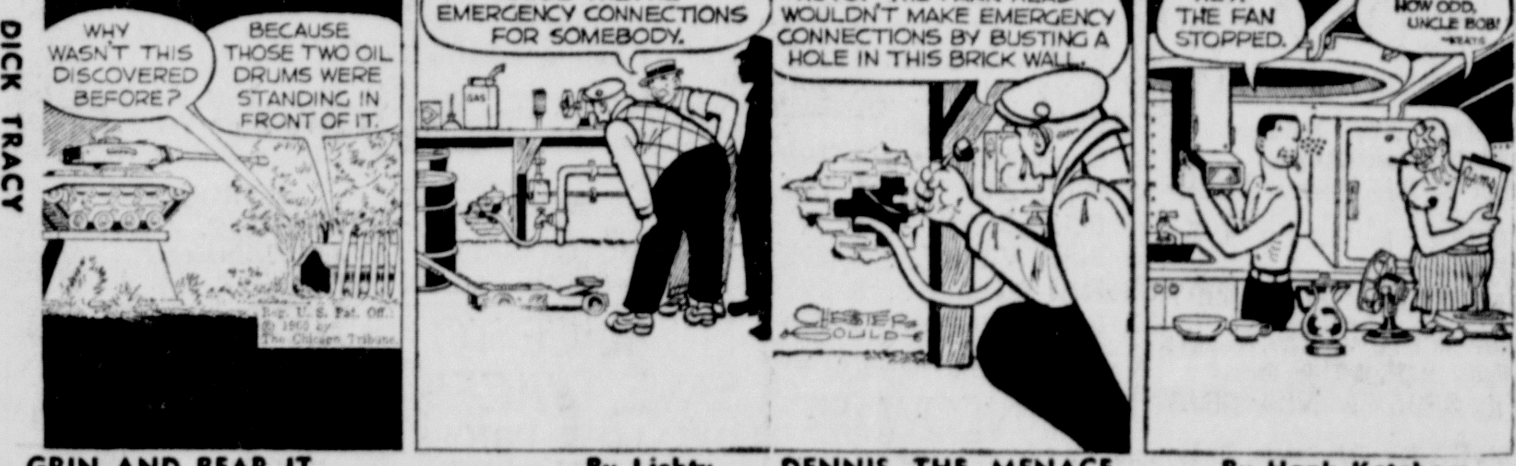

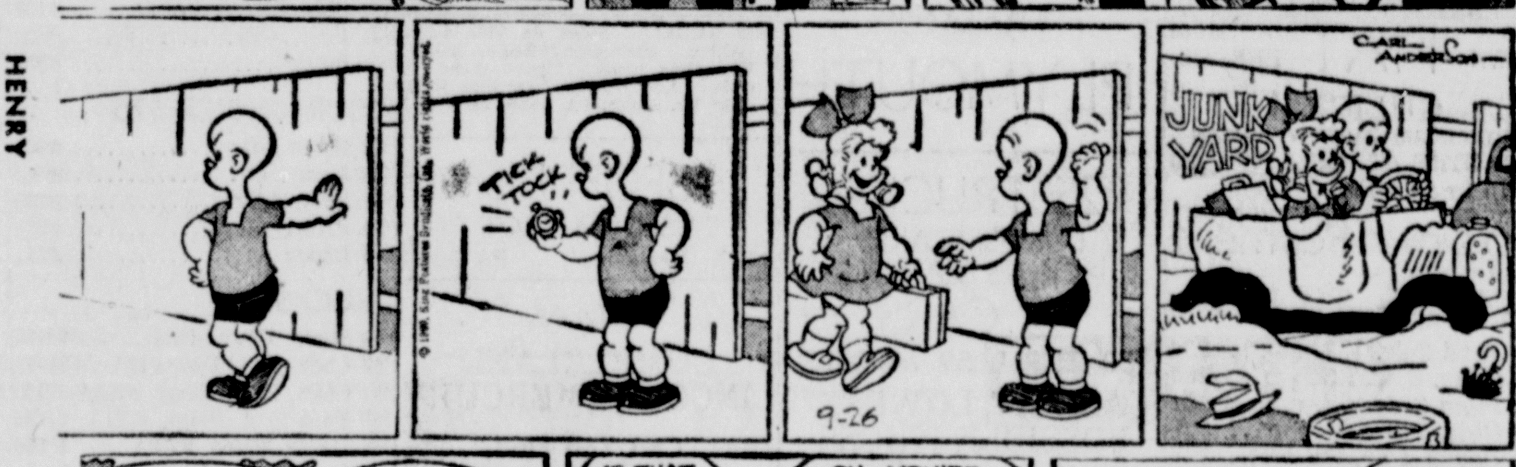

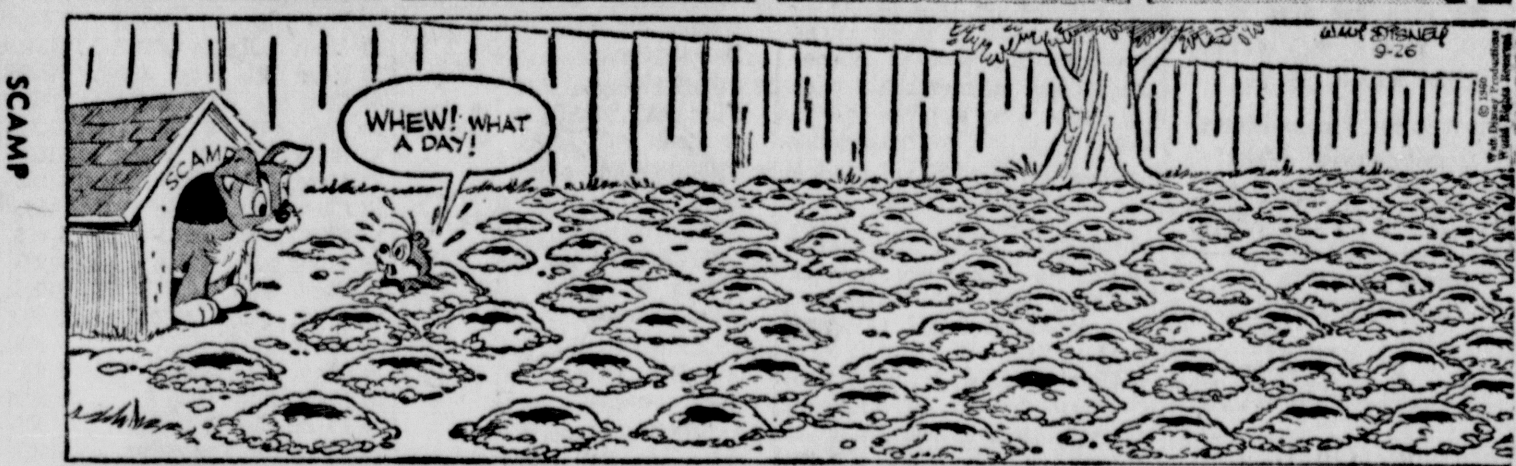

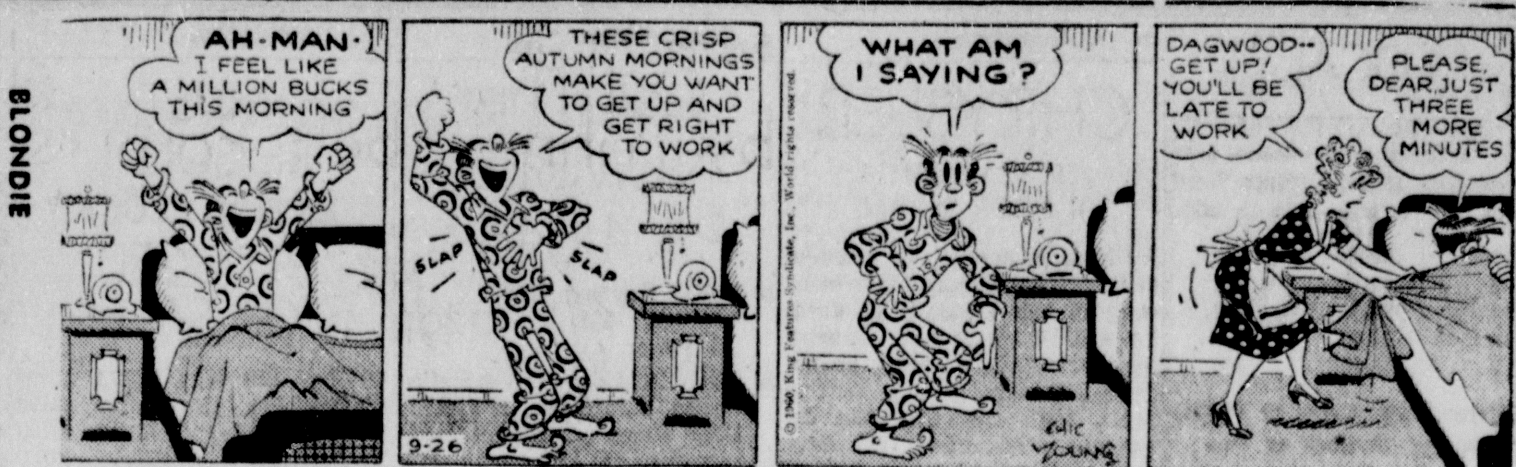

DEAR NOAH— WOULD A MATH TEACHER'S PLANT GROW SQUARE ROOTS? RITA GERY ALLENTOWN, PENNA.

DEAR NOAH— IS A BATHING BEAUTY A GIRL WORTH WADING FOR? MRS. O.E. LINDSTROM MADEIRA, MINN.

Powers Appointed 7th Circuit Judge

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Wednesday appointed Ralph W. Powers of Hyattsville as associate judge for the 7th Judicial Circuit.

Powers, in his early 50s, succeeds the late Judge John Raymond Fletcher. He will serve until the general election in November, 1962.

The 7th Judicial Circuit is composed of Calvert, Charles, Prince Georges and St. Mary's counties.

Rare Anthropology Finds Being Made In Wyoming

By JEFF GRIGSBY
LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI)—Wyoming, one of the youngest of states, is turning up some of the earliest evidences of man in the West.

In recent months, the University of Wyoming Anthropology Department has:

—Collected enough tiny bits of charcoal to date an ancient man site at 10,000 years old by means of a new process utilizing radioactivity.

—Discovered stone spearheads in the Big Horn Mountains of northern Wyoming which may be 11,000 years old.

—And discovered some mammoth bones near Rawlins buried in a spring along with some tool-like objects which may be more than 12,000 years old.

The charcoal dating method established a date of 10,780 years plus or minus 375 years for Polson Man spearhead points found at a Colorado site.

Method Is New

The dating method, a comparatively recent process, utilizes the fact that all living things absorb and maintain a certain level of radioactivity from their environment.

At death, the radioactivity starts playing itself out, like a battery running down. Sensitive instruments can detect how much the radioactivity level has declined and thus determine when the creature or thing died. Charcoal, the residue of once-living wood, is particularly adaptable.

Folsom Man was an ancient Indian hunter whose skeletons have never been found, but who left beautifully worked spearheads at several locations in the West.

In August, a university anthropology team found stone spearheads known as the Agate Basin type along a creek in the Big Horn Mountains.

Dr. George Agogino, assistant professor of anthropology, said they might be 1,000 years old—at that time probably the oldest evidences of man ever found in the state.

Workmen Are Surprised

Later in the month, workmen drilling a well in the Rawlins area uncovered what first appeared to be a pile of sticks. They were later determined to be the ribs of a young mammoth—the now extinct elephant-like creature which roamed the bogs of pre-history.

As more bones were uncovered, it became apparent that the skeleton was, as Agogino said, "the best preserved I've ever seen in my life."

Scientists uncovering the bones also found an instrument resembling an arrow head or possibly a knife. The point looks like one found in other diggings, dated at 15,000 years ago.

If it is later discovered that the point found with the bones was imbedded in the mammoth by prehistoric man, it would be "the leading anthropological find in years," Agogino said.

Saturn Static

Test Is Expected

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The second series of static tests of the Saturn superbooster is expected to start in November, the civilian space agency said Sunday.

The Saturn is the nation's brightest hope for a rocket to put a multiton payload into space or to effect a soft landing on the moon.

Clearspring 4-H Girls Plan Square Dance

CLEARSPRING — The Clearspring Girls 4-H Club will hold a square dance at the Wacooh Grange Hall on U. S. Route 40 near Hagerstown from 8 until 11 p. m. Friday, September 30.

Edward Miller of Midland, president of the Collegiate 4-H Club at the University of Maryland, will be one of the callers. All Maryland 4-H Club members are invited.

WORK ACCESSORIES—A civil service employee in Leopoldville goes to work with a machine gun slung around his neck in what has become typical Congolese style. His day included handling of a march by Congolese soldiers to demand an increase in their pay.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

"Sealed bids, in duplicate, will be received at the office of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, City Building, Westport, Maryland, until Friday, September 30, 1960, at 10:00 o'clock A. M. Local Time. At 10:00 o'clock on said date, they will be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be submitted in duplicate, in a sealed envelope, plainly endorsed on the outside thereof."

"PROPOSAL FOR RELOCATION OF BRINKER'S RUN AND INSTALLATION OF 60" PIPE UNDER FOURTH STREET"

Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond in the amount of Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00).

The work includes grading a new channel for Brinker's Run, approximately 370 feet in length and the placing of 60 linear feet of reinforced concrete pipe, all in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the City Engineer.

The City reserves the right to waive any formalities and to reject any or all bids, and to accept any proposal which in its judgment is to the best interests of the City.

A performance bond in the full amount of the accepted bid will be required of the successful bidder.

Three Injured In Crash Near Bloomington

Beryl, W. Va., Man Is Hospitalized

Three Beryl, W. Va., men were injured Saturday night in a one-car crash on Maryland Route 135 two miles west of Bloomington, according to state police who said one side of the car was torn off by the impact.

Russell S. Loy, 17, a passenger in the front center of the sedan, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser, where his condition last night was termed "satisfactory."

Authorities said the youth sustained a possible fractured left ankle, laceration of the nose, abrasions and contusions.

James B. Fazenbaker, driver of the car, suffered a laceration of his left hand, a number of abrasions and contusions was treated by a Piedmont physician, police said.

Also treated by the physician was James Feaster, 19, a passenger in the right front of the sedan, who sustained a number of contusions and abrasions.

Police said the four-door sedan was traveling east on the highway. It ran off the highway and hit a number of guard rails.

Trooper Bruce E. Diehl, who is investigating, said the driver of the car is still to be questioned in the accident, which happened at 8:10 p.m. in Garrett County.

Registration Deadline Tonight

All hands at the Board of Election Supervisors office were busy Saturday as this flock of prospective voters came in to register before the deadline. Persons who fail to enroll by 9 p. m. today won't be eligible to vote in the November 8 general election. Election board officials with backs to camera are (from left) Irvin C. Neat, Francis Thompson, Mrs. Elizabeth Bolt, Mrs. Geneva Nave, William Gutheridge and John R. Kelly. The office in the rear of the Court House will be open today from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. continuously. After that the books will be closed till November 24.

City Garbage Plan Bargain For Citizens

Represents 6½ Cents On 1960 Tax Rate

Garbage collection is one of the better bargains among the services offered by the City of Cumberland.

The service, according to City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, represents about 6½ cents of the $1.54 tax rate set for the city during the 1960 fiscal year.

This means that the family which lives in a home assessed at $10,000 will pay about $6.50 a year, or 54 cents a month for the vital service.

The total cost for garbage collection and the operation of the city dump, during the 1960-61 fiscal year is estimated at $87,000.

Sharing the cost for the virtually unlimited garbage collection offered here is not expensive to home owners, Mr. Gibson explained, because industries and mercantile establishments pay a considerable part of the cost.

He said people have often advocated that the city should make a service charge for garbage collection but that city officials have felt that the slight impact on the tax rate is justified for sanitation and other reasons.

The cost of three of the most vital services — police and fire protection and street lighting — amounts to about 48 cents on the tax rate.

The cost for the family whose home is assessed at $10,000 is about $4 a month for these services.

'Fly-In' Attracts Many Pilots Of Tri-State Area

Delaware, N.J. Are Represented

Fog over the Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford lifted yesterday morning, permitting a successful "Fly-In Breakfast" which attracted over 100 flying enthusiasts from the Tri-State area, the District of Columbia, New Jersey and Delaware.

The first out-of-town pilot to land at the airport was Gene Harvey of Woodbury, N.J., who was accompanied by two daughters, Lorraine and Mary Kay, and their girl friend, Nancy Connery, whose father is Thomas F. Connery, a state senator of New Jersey. They arrived at 8:45 a.m. while it was still foggy.

Quite a large number of local and area residents drove to the airport to see the tailless sailplane, the EPB 1 A Plank, which was piloted by Dr. Edward F. Byars, aeronautical engineer who is department chairman of practical and theoretical mechanics at West Virginia University.

The unusual sailplane, which has a wingspan of 32 feet with rudders on each tip, was constructed in June last year by members of a woodworking class at Champaign, Ill., High School under the direction of Herman Linder who is now an instructor at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Byars, who plans to house his sailplane at the airport, arrived about noon and took the craft aloft about 20 minutes.

William C. Holbrook, pilot for the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, then took the sailplane up for his first ride in the craft, which was towed into the air by a Piper Super Cub piloted by John F. "Jack" Wagner.

Mr. Harvey, the first out-of-town pilot to arrive at the airport and the pilot coming the greatest distance, was entitled to two prizes of rides in a Leister-Kaufman glider owned by local men.

He and his daughter Lorraine each took a ride in the glider, their first such experience. Mr. Holbrook and Dr. Robert Poling piloted the glider on the two separate rides.

R. E. Fisher of Moorefield was the oldest pilot at the event and received his first ride in a glider. He received his pilot's license in 1939 at Mexico Farms.

A number of persons also took rides during the day's event.

Breakfast was served to over 100. Lorimer J. Twigg was chairman of the breakfast, which was served by Miss Bette Williams, Mrs. Isabelle Dawson, Mrs. Eloise Nash, Mrs. Lorimer Twigg, Mrs. Elaine Clinebell and Miss Helene Knippenberg.

The event was sponsored by the Cumberland Flying Association.

Fire Company Will Install Officers Tonight

Officers of the Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company will be installed this evening at 8 o'clock in the fire hall by Ivan Wilson of Midland, president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The officers include Harry Malow, president; Leo Emerick, vice president; Lamar Minnick, secretary; Joseph Spear, financial secretary.

Jake Fletcher, Wendel Hott and John R. Wilson are trustees, and Joseph Kreger, sergeant-at-arms.

Fire Chief is Harold Hislop, former member of the Cumberland Fire Department, and assistant chief is H. A. Smith.

At tonight's meeting plans will be made for the observance of Fire Prevention Week next week, including a program at North-east School.

The fire truck fund is growing and the company hopes to send out specifications for the new truck the first part of next year.

After the meeting, refreshments will be served by the Ladies Auxiliary under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Deter.

Members of the company and auxiliary unit are urged to attend. Officers of the two-county association are expected to attend.

Old Armory May Be Sold At Auction

The Military Department of Maryland has been authorized to sell the old National Guard Armory here at a public auction, Mayor J. Edwin Keech has been advised.

This was learned in a letter from Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, adjutant general, which apparently dooms hopes of the City of Cumberland for partial reimbursement for its contribution toward the new armory in Ridgedale Addition.

Gen. Reckord said the Board of Public Works authorized the sale of the building after he related that the City of Cumberland had advised that it did not desire to exercise an option to purchase the building.

The city was a party to a verbal option whereby it agreed to donate a suitable site for the armory and the Military Department agreed to sell the armory to the city at a reduced price of $50,000.

Gen. Reckord noted that the city expressed the hope that if the armory is sold for more than $50,000, any excess money might be made available to the city as reimbursement for money spent for land, water and sewer lines and street improvements.

He stated specifically that the city cannot hope for such reimbursement from the Military Department since it would take an act of the Legislature to legally divert such funds.

Fire Prevention Week Activities Planned Here

Demonstrations Set In Business Houses

The Cumberland Fire Department is completing plans for the observance of Fire Prevention Week here October 9-15, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

The observance will be held under the supervision of Assistant Fire Chief Vincent Wegman and Fire Inspector Edward Trost.

Plans have been completed for holding demonstrations in a number of business and industrial establishments.

The demonstrations are being held, Chief Parker said, to demonstrate to the staffs of the establishments the use of fire fighting equipment which is available for their use.

A number of demonstrations will also be scheduled in schools and before clubs and organizations.

Supplies of Fire Prevention Week literature are on hand and will be distributed to schools and to interested groups.

As usual, firemen will offer conducted tours of fire stations and equipment and will offer free fire prevention inspections of homes and business places.

One of the leaflets available is a Home Fire Safety Check List, which enables citizens to make their own fire safety inspections. Copies will be made available to all who are interested.

Care can prevent fires, Chief Parker said.

Nearly one fourth of all fires, he said, are caused by matches and smoking.

A fifth of the fires are caused by the misuse of electrical equipment.

And three-fourths of all fires, he said, are direct results of human carelessness and forgetfulness.

Walsh Named To Executive Unit For Campaign

BALTIMORE (AP) — Thirteen party leaders have been named vice chairmen of an executive committee directing the Democratic election campaign in Maryland.

Announced Saturday by Thomas B. Finan and William D. Macmillan, state campaign co-chairmen, they include:

Former Sens. George L. Radcliffe and Millard E. Tydings, former Rep. Lansdale G. Sasser, Baltimore Mayor J. Harold Grady, former Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, National Committeewoman Mildred Otenssek, former National Committeewoman Alice Canoles, Dr. H. C. Byrd, George P. Mahoney, William C. Walsh, E. Brooke Lee, James Bruce and Mrs. Mary L. Wilson.

Named vice chairmen of the advisory committee were former Gov. William Preston Lane Jr., State Sen. Mary L. Nock, Del. Verda F. Welcome and Magistrate Josiah F. Henry Jr.

Gov. Tawes was named chairman of both groups.

Republican Rally Thursday In Westernport

Kelley, Whitworth Will Be Speakers

The Republican Party of Allegany County will hold the first of a series of community campaign rallies Thursday night in Westernport.

The rally, open to the public, will be held in the Tea Room on Main Street in Westernport, according to George R. Hughes Jr. and Louis V. Shinnamon, co-chairmen of the GOP campaign committee.

Del. Estel C. Kelley and Former Delegate Horace P. Whitworth Jr. will be the principal speakers.

Del. Kelley will speak for Charles McC. Mathias, Frederick County, Republican standard bearer in the 6th District Congressional contest.

Mr. Whitworth will speak for the Republican national ticket, Vice President Richard M. Nixon for President, and Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, his running mate for the Vice Presidency.

Refreshments will be served following the rally.

GOP officials said more than 12 rallies are being scheduled throughout the county during the next few weeks.

Del. Kelley, who makes his home at 708 Fayette Street, is a native of Westernport. He has practiced law here since 1926 and has served a number of terms in the General Assembly.

A well known Westernport attorney, Mr. Whitworth served for eight years in the Maryland House of Delegates.

Legislative Committee Is Named

Harry I. Stegmaier has been appointed chairman of the legislative committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Other members of the committee appointed by Chamber president C. M. Sanner, are:

Douglas R. Bowie, George M. Young, James A. Aviretti, W. Earle Cobey, Henry K. Duke, Arthur B. Gibson, Robert G. Garner, Clarence Lippel, John D. Liebau, Henry W. Price, Carl C. Robbins, John W. Rollins, Hudson Nix, Harry J. Barton, Bert J. Graham and Miles G. Thompson Jr.

The committee has been asked to keep Chamber members informed on current legislation, encourage members to take an interest in legislative affairs and to make recommendations to the Chamber on decisions affecting policy.

Local Priest Moderator At University

Rev. Claude Kean, OFM, has been appointed Roman Catholic moderator for the Emory University campus at Atlanta, Ga.

The position, according to Rev. Sam Laird, director of religious life at the institution, was previously served on a part-time basis by Father Giles Webster, Catholic chaplain at Georgia Tech.

A native of Cumberland, Father Kean entered the Franciscan Order in Paterson, N.J. in 1921 and was ordained a priest in 1927.

He will have office hours in the Emory Christian Association conference room, will celebrate Mass daily and conduct a course in Catholic apologetics.

His priesthood has been spent in educational work at St. Bonaventure University, high schools in Rochester and Buffalo, N.Y., St. Francis College in Rye Beach, N.H., Holy Name College in Washington, D.C., and St. Joseph Seminary in Callicoon, N.Y.

While stationed in Washington he served as Newman Club chaplain at the University of Maryland in College Park. He has edited The Provincial Annals, chronicle of the missionary activities of the New York province of Franciscans, for the past seven years.

Cub Pack 20 Opens Fall Season

Cub Pack 20 at Mt. Royal School has opened its season with 47 applications for membership already on hand.

Eight parents and boys attended an organizational meeting at the school, at which pack officials announced that they hope to have eight dens in operation this year.

Willis V. Smith, Potomac Council Scout executive, spoke on "Cub Scouting: A Family Undertaking."

Carson Dowell, Cubmaster, announced appointment of three assistants, Harry Gilbert, Wilton Syckes and Olin C. Colmer. Walter Frederick is chairman of the pack committee and James Sloan is vice chairman.

To Be Investigated

An application for a junkyard permit in Cresaptown has been referred to County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya for his investigation.

The Board of County Commissioners wants Mr. Lilya to take photographs of the area in question to help the commissioners in deciding whether the permit should be granted or not.

The county commissioners have decided to meet on Thursday instead of Friday this week so they can attend the meeting of the State Association of County Engineers in the agriculture center at Westminster Friday.

Paul Martin, a Post Office employee, complained to the county commissioners last Friday about the condition of four roads off Baltimore Pike. They are Eastman Road, old Hancock Road, Messick Road and Sunrise Avenue. The complaint will be investigated by Harry Skelly, county roads supervisor, and County Commissioner John J. Rowan.

City Fire Pumpers Pass Service Tests

All first and second line fire equipment passed Board of Fire Underwriters service tests last week, according to Fire Chief Virgil Parker.

Pumpers, hose and nozzles are tested under operating conditions and at rated capacity twice a year. The tests are a preliminary step to preparing motorized equipment for winter or summer operating conditions.

Road Contract Is Awarded

The $146,952.68 contract for construction and relocation of part of the Mexico Farms Road has been awarded to the Cumberland Contracting Company, M. M. Brodsky, assistant comptroller of the State Roads Commission, reports.

Mr. Brodsky notified the Allegany County Board of Commissioners of this action in a letter received Friday.

The SRC's engineering department is preparing allocations of quantities and costs to be shared by the county and the federal government. Part of the cost will be on a 50-50 basis and the federal funds will pay for 90 per cent of the costs of other portions. The contractor will not get an order to proceed with construction until after the exact figures on the county and federal shares of the expenses are determined.

A letter also was received from William H. Brent, branch manager for Acme Visible Records Inc., Crozet, Va. Mr. Brent reports that it will cost the county $1,322.50 for equipment and supplies necessary to establish a number index system in the office of the assessment department.

County Commissioner John T. Mason had expressed hope that the system can be established under the 1961 department budget. Twelve of Maryland's 23 counties now have such systems.

Weber To Head C. Of C. Unit

James L. Weber has been named chairman of the annual meeting and program of work committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Other members of the unit appointed by C. M. Sanner, president, are Charles L. George, Charles C. Irby and L. V. Shinnamon.

The committee was asked to set up the annual meeting, plus a membership meeting to develop ideas of members into a program of work.

Study Course Opens Tonight

A study course will be held today through Friday by Second Baptist Church, with meetings beginning nightly at 7:30.

Teachers will be Rev. Archie McIntyre, pastor, and Kenneth E. Robinson, Sunday School superintendent, teaching adults and young people; Benjamin Brakeall and Mrs. Lawrence Leiding, intermediate; Mrs. William Popp and Mrs. Wilbur Hudson, junior; Mrs. Kenneth Robinson, primary; Mrs. Paul Wright, beginners. The nursery workers will be directed by Mrs. Charles Plummer.

The week will be climaxed with a period of fellowship with Dr. Alvin Friend, Deep Creek Baptist Church, bringing a message. The Oakland dentist is known throughout that area as an outstanding leader in his church and community. His talk will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Skating Parties Held

The Teen-Age Firettes of Baltimore Pike Volunteer Fire Company are sponsoring skating parties at Moon-Glo roller rink on Bedford Road on the second Tuesday of each month.

Lions Will Meet

"A Journey Into Paradise" with a Hawaiian motif will be a highlight of the weekly luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Lions Club Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Local Product Has Worldwide Use

A special plastic insulation strip, made only in Cumberland, is applied to heavy electrical equipment.

Cumberland is known throughout the world for its fine steel shafting, tires, textile fibers, rockets, macaroni, instruments and top quality plate glass.

Not so well known is a line of special electrical insulation products that go into only the largest and most spectacular projects.

It was learned the other day, through a purchase order placed with Artmor Plastics Corporation here, that the first isolated phase bar installation in Australia has been undertaken.

The project is the Yallourn "E" Power Station of the State Electricity Commission of Victoria. Yallourn is some 90 miles east of Melbourne on one of the world's largest brown coal deposits.

It's not a coincidence that Artmor knows of all such projects, because whenever major installations are underway this special insulation must come from Cumberland. Artmor designed, created and owns the only machine that produces it.

Nearly eight years ago, Artmor Plastics Corporation, presently located on Oldtown Road, was retained to engineer a completely new project to meet the demands created by heavier equipment.

Several major electrical equipment manufacturers, upon recommendation of a major rubber and chemical products firm, co-operatively engaged Artmor for the engineering.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. R. Cullen McGeady, Baltimore, former residents, announce the birth of a daughter Friday in a hospital there. The mother is the former Miss Gloria Mont, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Mont, 535 Greene Street. The father is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick R. McGeady, 305 Decatur Street.

First To Arrive At 'Fly-In' Event

Gene Harvey, left, of Woodbury, N. J. was the first pilot from out-of-town to arrive yesterday morning at the "Fly-In Breakfast" sponsored at the Municipal Airport by the Cumberland Flying Association. He is being greeted by Franklin H. Young, local flying enthusiast. The young lady in the center is Miss Nancy Connery, daughter of State Senator Thomas F. Connery of New Jersey. In the background, left to right, are Mary Kay Harvey and her sister Lorraine, daughters of Mr. Harvey.
